7. ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

7A. DISCUSSION REGARDING THE DRAFT ORDINANCE PROHIBITING THE FEEDING OF BIRDS ON PUBLIC PROPERTY

Deputy Director Cessna provided background on the item continued from the February 3, 2011 Commission meeting. She reported that the Police Department worked with the City Attorney to craft language that would reflect concerns expressed at that meeting; however, the City Attorney recommends that the ordinance go forward as previously written.

Lieutenant D'Anjou introduced Police Operations Supervisor Aceves. Referring to a question raised at the February meeting, he explained that using a Public Nuisance ordinance to address the bird feeding issue would be extremely difficult and expensive to enforce and that the City Attorney does not recommend it. Responding to a suggestion to add language making "large scale feeding" of birds a violation, he stated that the City Attorney advised that enforcement would be cost prohibitive and time/labor intensive.

At 7:15 p.m., Chairperson Griffiths welcomed comments from the public.

Aniqa Azad, West 190th Street, voiced support for the ordinance and discussed problems caused by feeding pigeons and sea gulls at Columbia Park that include roof damage, decreased property values, and spread of disease.

Valerie Ellis, Plaza Del Amo, read and entered into record a February 23, 2011 letter from Nina Dabbieri, Via El Chico, to Planning Manager Lodan expressing her opposition to the proposed ordinance.

Doug Austin, Park Place, expressed support for the ordinance to resolve the destruction of property and health issues caused by excessive bird feeding.

Jae Kim, West 190th Street, urged the Commission to recommend passing the ordinance, noting that there is more than one person feeding birds at Columbia Park.

Terry Furey, Cranbrook Avenue, voiced support for the ordinance to address the large number of birds that wait all day to be fed at Columbia Park.

Mimi Im, West 190th Street, pleaded passage of the ordinance and stated that her backyard is unusable because of bird feces and health concerns.

Commissioner Robbins stated that the unwanted behavior at Columbia Park is unfair to residents and park visitors, that he is in favor of recommending adoption to City Council, and suggested using Park Rangers to assist with enforcement.

In response to Commissioner Watson's inquiry, Deputy Director Cessna explained that the original ordinance has been determined to be the most enforceable, adding that a "Where as" section could be added to make the intent clear.

Lieutenant D'Anjou stated that the ordinance is similar to those passed in other jurisdictions and that it is not being proposed to target one homeless individual who is in fact not homeless. He pointed out that more than one person is feeding birds at Columbia Park and that problems also exist at Wilson Park, downtown Torrance, and at 171st and Gramercy Avenue. He noted the damage being done to parks and public right-of-ways, adding that Park Services is unable to clean it.

Commissioner Gobble thanked audience members for their comments. He stated that he sympathizes with residents but expressed concern about citations being issued for the small feeding of birds.

Lieutenant D'Anjou explained discussions with the City Attorney, the difficulty in enforcing and prosecuting the ordinance with revisions suggested at the February meeting, and the difference between the letter of the law and the spirit of the law. He added that Animal Control has no way to relocate the birds or "thin the population" but asserted that once the food source is taken away, the birds will have no choice but to go elsewhere. He offered to explore the possibility of using sterile grain in the future.

Commissioner Reilly voiced support for recommending approval of the ordinance and, in response to her inquiry regarding enforceability, Lieutenant D'Anjou stated that officers do not need to see the crime occurring, just a connection.

Commissioner Cunningham thanked residents for their patience with the process and, responding to his inquiries, Lieutenant D'Anjou stated that signage would be installed at parks, explained the enforcement and prosecution process, and advised that restitution was a civil matter.

MOTION: Commissioner Gobble moved to recommend adoption of the ordinance to ban the feeding of birds on public property as presented. Commissioner Robbins seconded the motion; a roll call vote reflected unanimous approval (absent Commissioner Chim).
